

We awaken every morning more in love and more connected than ever before. All of our walls have vanished and we have melded as our tree in the woods into one. We truly experience our magical life with great appreciation and honor for who we are and what we have together. We are experiencing true freedom on every level and have all our dreams continually manifesting as we experience a life more awesome than we could ever dream or imagine.

We are comforted and secure in every way as we function totally and completely in the flow of consciousness.

Our health continues to improve every day. Our bodies are stronger, more fit and more vibrant than they have ever been. Our physical and immune strength is profound.

We have more money than we could ever spend or give away and listen closely to our knowing as to how to spend and manage it.

Our minds are clear and our memories pristine. We see things through the eyes of the fifth dimension and beyond and are fully connected to all that is in every moment of every day.

Our contribution to life is continuous and the manor in which we do that is completely balanced and easy. Work has been eliminated. Play grounded in peace is our way of life.

Our life is balanced between travel, writing, speaking, our pets and our connection to consciousness, nature and our land. We are in touch with and follow the guidance of other ways that we are asked to contribute and find it easy, fun and powerful.

We play and laugh continuously.

We find it very easy to be fully aware and completely present in every moment of every day. We are truly one with life.

We claim our new life.

We step into the new us.
